A true passion for military Simulation & Training

Jan proves a distinguished career and exemplary service within the military S&T Family. His over 26 years of dedication to the development and modeling of new simulation & training products and systems for the defense community is proof of his personal conviction for saving lives, preserving physical assets, and protecting innocents.

*"Saving lives is our goal for every simulation and training system designed.
The need to prepare armed combat and security forces as realistically as possible is crucial."*

Vote for your Choice until Thursday,
16 July, 9pm UTC/5pm EDT!
