

Timeline

Council calls for formal review of Murray Darling Basin Plan

4:53 PM AEST

Major parties commit to addressing medicine safety

4:43 PM AEST

Progressing road safety around Lauderdale Primary School

4:37 PM AEST

Property located- Mayfield

4:34 PM AEST

Classical and rock music collide at Vivid Sydney at Chatswood – music of 1969

4:32 PM AEST

High Court delivers judgment in broker's appeal from Full Federal Court

4:31 PM AEST

Julia Gillard on role modelling, resilience and leadership

4:29 PM AEST

Statement from ACEM re Mersey Community Hospital

4:28 PM AEST

Critical incident investigation launched at Campbelltown

4:26 PM AEST

Holden State of Origin series launched

4:26 PM AEST

Mayor calls for Federal candidates to vote 1 – Isaac

4:19 PM AEST

Slide on down to new Queens Park Playspace

4:18 PM AEST

Comscore Announces New Leadership in APAC and EMEA

4:17 PM AEST

Forum to help aged care providers prepare for disaster

4:08 PM AEST

Court dismisses ACCC proceedings opposing rail freight consolidation

4:04 PM AEST

Business MAY 15, 2019 10:05 AM AEST

Share

Victorian manufacturers shine at 2019 Hall of Fame Awards

Victorian innovative, visionary and entrepreneurial businesses and individuals driving the manufacturing industry now and into the future won big at last night's Victorian Manufacturing Hall of Fame Awards.

Minister for Jobs, Innovation and Trade Martin Pakula congratulated the winners and finalists for their work in continuing to take Victorian businesses to the next level.

The theme for the 2019 Manufacturing Hall of Fame is Industrial Evolution – highlighting the resilience of Victorian manufacturing and the people who drive the industry, supporting hundreds of thousands of jobs.

Inaugural awards were presented to Air Radiators were awarded the Leader in Innovative Product Development and Commercialisation, and Holden Special Vehicles were awarded the Leader in Global Supply Chain Partnerships

For their excellence in leadership and innovation in the manufacturing industry, Rochelle Avinu from Lei Biosystems was awarded the Woman Manufacturer of the Year award, and Nicholas Orchowski from RL Australia received the award for Young Manufacturer of the Year.

The Manufacturer of the Year (Large Business) was awarded to Dulux Australia, while Robert Bosch Aust took out the Leader in Industry 4.0 award and Barker Trailers was awarded the 2019 Leader in Workforce Development.

“Our manufacturing industry is one of Victoria's greatest strengths and successfully exports, invests and contributes to our thriving economy” Minister for Jobs, Innovation and Trade Martin Pakula

Geoffrey Bell was inducted into the Hall of Fame Honour Roll, in recognition of the evolution and growth A.W.Bell established as a family pattern making business in 1952 with the company now employing 100 and providing unique and one-off metal parts and prototypes for businesses and entrepreneurs.

A number of other companies were also recognised with awards for excellence, including Safetech and (Australia, with RUAG Australia the latest company inductee into the prestigious Hall of Fame.

The Victorian Manufacturing Hall of Fame has been recognising outstanding businesses and individuals in the manufacturing industry since 2001 and recognises Victorian manufacturers who have made an ongoing contribution to the industry through innovation, investment and trade and supply chain connections.

Victoria's manufacturing industry contributes over $30 billion to the Victorian economy annually, employs more than 270,000 people and competes globally with $19.6 billion annual exports in 2017-18.

For the full list of winners and finalists at the 2019 Victorian Manufacturing Hall of Fame Awards, visit Bu Victoria's website.

/Public Release. View in full here.

Tags: Australia, Award, Bell, business, Economy, Family, future, Global Victoria, Government, Impact, innovation, Investment, Minister, Victoria, website, young